

Helping you choose books for children

opening extract from Chicken for Supper

written by

Carrie Weston

illustrations by

Sophie Fatus

published by

Simon and Schuster

All text is copyright of the author and illustrator

please print off and read at your leisure.

For my Aunt Joan, who gave me poetry books

CW

For 'Meraviglio' with tenderness

SF

SIMON AND SCHUSTER

First published in Great Britain in 2006 by Simon and Schuster UK Ltd
Abley House, 64-78 Kingsway, London WC2B 6AH

Text copyright © 2006 Carrie Weston
Illustrations copyright © 2006 Sophie Fatus

The rights of Carrie Weston and Sophie Fatus to be identified as the author and illustrator of this work has been asserted by them in accordance with the Copyright, Design and Patents Act, 1988

Book designed by Germaine Webster
The text for this book is set in Nicolas-Jensen
The illustrations for this book are rendered in acrylic

All rights reserved, including the right of reproduction in whole or in part in any form

A CIP catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library upon request

ISBN 1 416 90485 7
Printed in China
1 3 5 7 9 8 4 4 2

Chicken for Supper

Carrie Weston & Sophie Fatus

SIMON AND SCHUSTER

London · New York · Sydney

On a clear, moonlit night Mummy Fox kissed each of her five children goodbye.

"We will have chicken for supper tonight!" she told them. The little foxes licked their lips and their tummies rumbled. "Now, do not leave the den when I am gone," warned Mummy Fox.

"No, Mummy! We'll be good, Mummy!" sang the five little foxes together.

Then they waved their little white paws as Mummy Fox disappeared into the night.

The five little foxes all huddled together: Tufty, Mufty,
Rusty, Misty and Rag.

They waited and they thought of chicken for supper.

They waited and they waited.

"Well, I'm off to have fun," yelled Rag suddenly,
as he darted out of the den and into the night.
His brothers and sisters watched him go.

"Let's go and play!" said Rag.

"But Mummy said not to leave the den," said Tufty.

"What if we just poked our noses out?" suggested Mufty.

"It's very dark out there," squeaked Rusty and Misty together.

The five little foxes waited some more.

