

A colorful illustration of a winter night. In the foreground, a man and a woman stand in a snowy landscape. The man is wearing a blue coat and a blue hat, and the woman is wearing a blue sweater and a blue hat. They are holding a yellow rope attached to a grey donkey. The donkey has a red and white striped harness and is carrying a large bundle of red and yellow fabric on its back. To the right, a wooden barn is visible, with a brown and white cow looking out from a window. The background features snow-covered hills and several evergreen trees under a dark blue night sky with falling snow.

At the inn, they shook their heads.
“We have no room. We have no beds.”

A tear shone in a mother’s eye.
“Will anyone welcome my child?” she sighed.

“I,” said the tree,
sure and strong.
“I’ll watch over him
all night long.”

“I,” said the star, shining high.
“I’ll ring like a bell in the winter sky.”

