

A THING CALLED SNOW

YUVAL ZOMMER

Dedicated to the wild

OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS

Great Clarendon Street, Oxford OX2 6DP

Oxford University Press is a department of the University of Oxford. It furthers the University's objective of excellence in research, scholarship, and education by publishing worldwide. Oxford is a registered trade mark of Oxford University Press in the UK and in certain other countries

Text and illustrations copyright © Yuval Zommer 2020

Author photo by Ian Hessenberg

The moral rights of the author and illustrator have been asserted Database right Oxford University Press (maker)

First published 2020

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted, in any form or by any means, without the prior permission in writing of Oxford University Press, or as expressly permitted by law, or under terms agreed with the appropriate reprographics rights organization. Enquiries concerning reproduction outside the scope of the above should be sent to the Rights Department, Oxford University Press, at the address above

You must not circulate this book in any other binding or cover and you must impose this same condition on any acquirer

British Library Cataloguing in Publication Data
Data available

ISBN: 978-0-19-276982-4

1 3 5 7 9 10 8 6 4 2

Printed in China

Paper used in the production of this book is a natural, recyclable product made from wood grown in sustainable forests. The manufacturing process conforms to the environmental regulations of the country of origin.

Fox and Hare were born in the spring, grew up in the summer, and were best of friends by autumn.

Then one day Fox's nose twitched.
Hare's ears pricked . . .

'Winter is on its way,' said Tern.
'I'm flying south, but soon you will be able to jump, leap,
and bounce in this thing called snow!'

But what exactly was snow?

Before Fox and Hare could find out,
Tern had already gone.

'Hello, there,' called Fox.
'Is that snow?'

So they followed the stream, searching for something as fluffy as their tails.

Round a rocky bend, they found Salmon, leaping through an icy stream, flashing bright.

'No, this is spray,' said Salmon.
'Snow is fluffy, like your tails.'

