When winter days
are cold and grey,
When frost lies on the ground,

When all the colours wash away,
And rainbows can't be found,

When people shiver, branches quiver,
And everything looks bland,
I like to slip away into a multi-coloured land!

The brightest eels you've ever seen,
In ruby red and emerald green.

Zebra fish with stripes so bold

And parrotfish in blue and gold!

Clownfish form a merry band,
As starfish dance along the sand.

All aboard the great whale's tail!
We're heading back up top,

Where everything is dull and bland...

But wait a minute...stop!
